

As soon as the Do Not Call Program became available I immediately signed up myself as well as both my husband's and my parents for this protection. We have found that the number of interruptions in our day and evening has vastly decreased. No longer are we receiving unsolicited or unwanted phone calls. We are able to enjoy a better quality of life with our families and are not pestered by nuisance calls. As the Federal Communication Commission please continue to support this for families and individuals and do not overturn New Jersey or other state's Do Not Call laws. As citizens we know who we want to be contacted by and who we don't - I pay to have an unlisted phone number - why should calling services be able to contact me at will. In addition if I have discontinued using a service I should not be subjected to repeated phone calls from them after discontinuing these services.

Specifically, businesses want the ability to contact any person on the Do Not Call list who they have conducted business with during the last 18 months. The New Jersey law does not include this exemption and I would hope that we can continue to not be bothered by unwanted calls.

Governor Codey is adamantly opposed to any weakening of the program. He is calling on New Jersey citizens to take a moment and click on the link below and file a comment with the FCC about whether they think New Jersey's law should be weakened.
